

SPOTTED GUM DECKING

25 February 2014

CUTEK Extreme Clear applied to new Spotted Gum decking.

www.cutek.com.au

Spotted Gum is a great choice for a decking project. Apart from being very dense, it is naturally durable so performs very well in full weather exposed settings. It is also one of the few fire rated timber species options available on the market today. However, this beautiful wood species is still prone to checking very quickly once installed and iron stain can appear from nail/screw fragments when it becomes wet. CUTEK Extreme offers a brilliant wood protection option as it can be applied as a PreCoat before install. The pre coated boards can even be wet stacked without delay or problem to the finish. This clever option enables fast and cost effective protection of the wood straight from the pack. More and more wood mills are offering a service of applying CUTEK as a PreCoat option before it gets to site. CUTEK reduces moisture into the wood and in return dramatically reduces splitting, checking, cupping etc. CUTEK also offers a very fast and easy maintenance experience long term. CUTEK will never peel or flake and only needs a simple clean and 1 x thin coat to keep your wood project like new.